GOOD DESIGN VS BAD DESIGN!

GOOD DESIGN:-

DETAILS ABOUT GOOD DESIGN:-

1. Strong visual hierarchy
   The product bottle is the main focus. Title, image, and text are arranged clearly, guiding the user's eyes properly.
2. Consistent color theme
   Green shades are used throughout the design, matching the "green tea / natural drink" concept.
3. Good use of images
   High-quality images (product, leaves, lifestyle image) support the message and make the design attractive.
4. Proper alignment and spacing
   Elements are well-aligned and spaced evenly, making the layout look professional and clean.
5. Clear message and branding
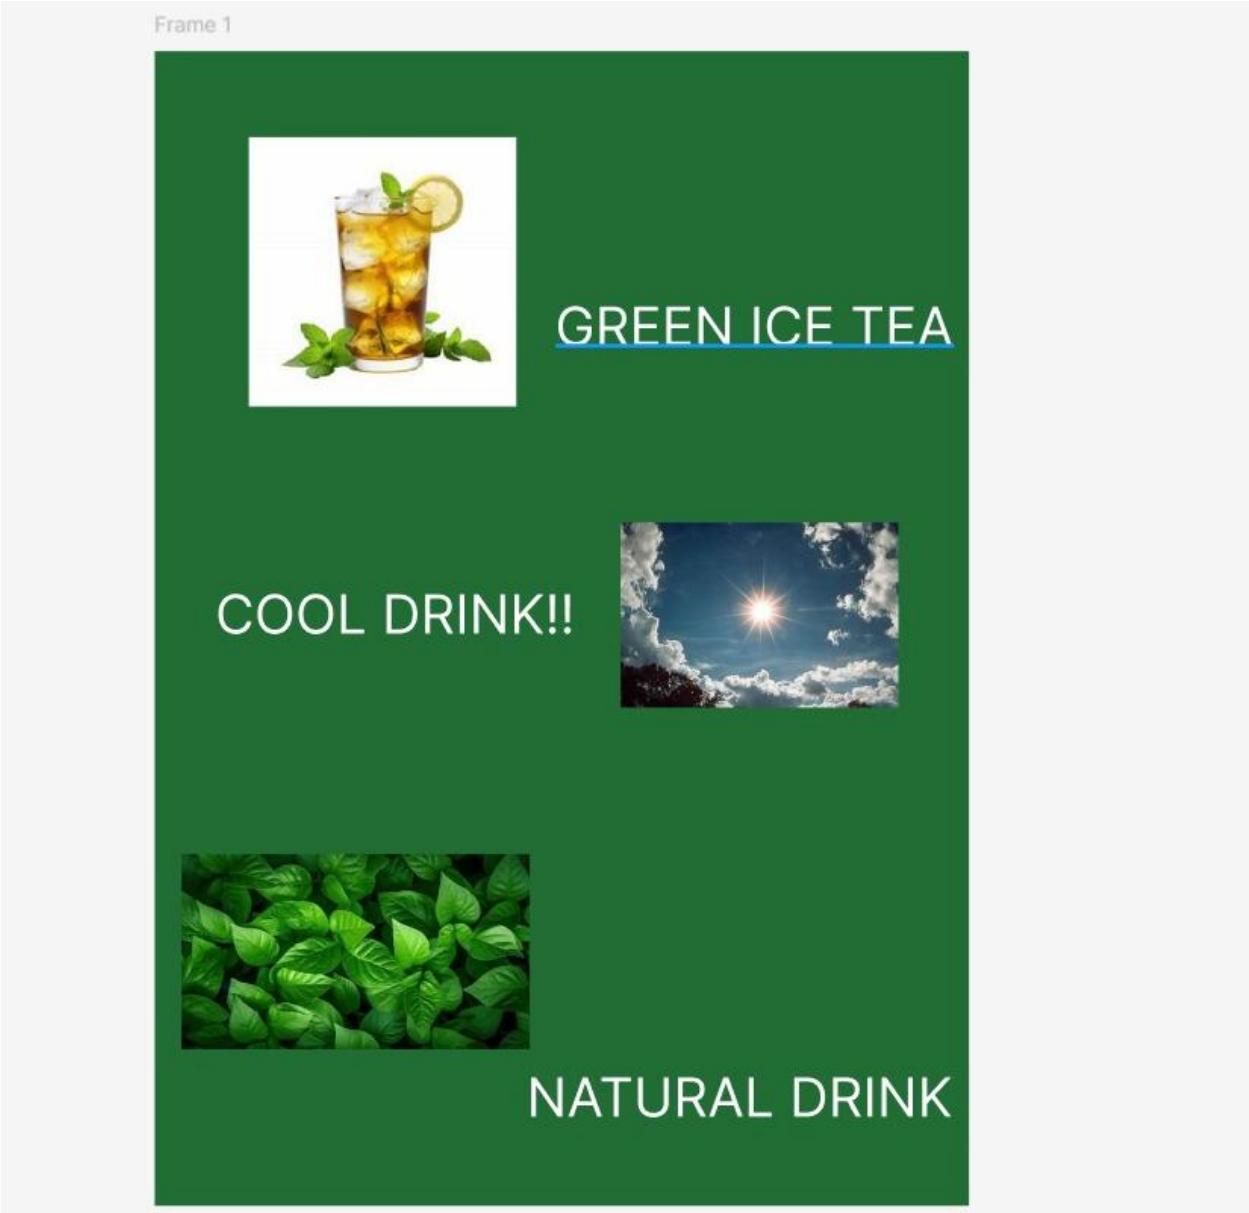
   The text "Green Ice Tea" and "Drink green tea, stay fit" clearly communicate the purpose of the poster.

BAD DESIGN:-



DETAILS ABOUT BAD DESIGN:-

1. Poor alignment
   Images and text are placed randomly without proper alignment, which makes the design look unorganized.

2. No clear visual hierarchy
   All elements look equally important, so the user does not know where to look first.
3. Inconsistent image sizes
   Images are of different sizes and styles, which reduces visual balance and professionalism.
4. Weak spacing
   Too much empty space in some areas and crowded elements in others make the design look incomplete.
5. Typography issues
   Font styles and text placement are not consistent, reducing readability and visual appeal.
